

---

New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 05-05-2008 13:26

---

Now is the time when Chairmen start rubbing their hands. Although there are no more gate receipts until August (except Play-Off sides), new season tickets and new kits are approaching.

There has been no mention on Forest's website of the new home kit, but one is definitely due. Hopefully I can scrape enough pennies together to buy one.

I bet there are going to be some crazy designs coming out. Hopefully some as bad as Liverpool's salmon pink kit!!

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Ibn Pickthall - 05-05-2008 14:13

---

Is Liverpool's as ghastly as this?

<http://mm.servifutbol.com/Español/Deportes/Fútbol/Noticias/30813/sevilla3-marti.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 05-05-2008 14:25

---

The new Liverpool home kit that they wore yesterday is Ok if unremarkable

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by dgllh - 05-05-2008 14:34

---

I am really sad the old board doesn't work when we talk about kits. That old thread was pretty special.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 05-05-2008 18:52

---

The previous board kit thread was absolutely spectacular, although the 'bad kit' threads were better...

I had the, erm, 'pleasure' of seeing Sevilla play in that kit at Camp Nou in September. It burned your retina even from the back of the third tier. Still better than the just plain boring Sevilla home kit, though.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Reed of the Valley People - 05-05-2008 18:58

---

That Sevilla kit is by some distance the worst kit I've ever seen, and that's saying something.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 05-05-2008 19:01

---

Seriously, Reed? Have you not seen this thread?

---

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Reed of the Valley People - 05-05-2008 21:46

---

I'll clarify. I'd say it's the worst idea for kit ever.

As I said in another thread (how is this coming up twice?) neon colors were briefly in vogue among teenage girls in the mid-1980s. For a football team to be trotting them out now - and not just any neon color, but neon pink - just defies all explanation.

Those other abominations came out in an era when horribly garish sweaters and tennis clothes were in vogue.

The Caribous shirts were not that outrageous for the time. It was the late 1970's, after all and NASL needed every gimmick it could devise to draw in fans (using the ABA as a model).

It's one thing to get swept up in a horribly-misguided-and-soon-to-be-widely-regretted fashion movement. It's quite another to pay homage to such a movement 20 years after it went into the dustbin of history.

Plus, the inclusion of red with the pink makes it look like a bad valentine, plus the black socks don't go very well. The inclusion of a gambling website as a shirt sponsor just adds just the right touch of class to the whole thing.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bafflin Smoke Signals - 06-05-2008 07:13

---

the inclusion of red with the pink makes it look like a bad valentine, plus the black socks don't go very well

The combination of pink and black worn by Palermo over the years has always struck me as looking pretty damn cool.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by King Mob - 06-05-2008 08:14

---

That Sevilla kit is class. I'd snap one up like a shot if they did the shirt in a skinnier cut.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by JtS - 06-05-2008 09:06

---

The new Spurs kits are being unveiled tonight, if a rumoured version is true it will have navy blue side panels going diagonally down the back. Hopefully this means the shorts will go back to being navy blue.

It goes on sale on Saturday night at midnight, with some strange incentives like a stadium tour and stroll out onto the pitch.

I presume it will be worn for the Liverpool game

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 06-05-2008 09:44

---

How do "side panels" go "diagonally down the back"?

---

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 06-05-2008 10:10

---

I hate to say this but the Chelea kit looks OK from the little I have seen of it.

When I was last in the Liverpool shop, there was loads of pink stuff so they were obviously softening up the public.

Is it really neon pink? Class

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by JtS - 06-05-2008 10:13

---

Harry, they go down the sides then kind of bend round the back, diagonally.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 06-05-2008 10:35

---

Hmmm. I might be able to stomach that if they bring back the navy shorts.

Puma do seem to be much less slavishly dedicated to their "templates" than their primary competitors, though, at least as far as club sides are concerned (the cookie-cutter similarity of their national team shirts (especially the African ones) mandating use of the qualifier).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 06-05-2008 11:02

---

There is no Liverpool pink kit is there? The new one is a typical shade of red from them, quite nice too as is Chelsea's. Adidas seem to have calmed down a bit.

Was the reference at the top of the thread meant to refer to Everton's 90s salmon pink & navy stripes (with the mis-spelt motto)? That was a lovely kit.

Can we have more new kit images please, there must have been plenty in the last two weekends.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 06-05-2008 11:03

---

JtS wrote:

Harry, they go down the sides then kind of bend round the back, diagonally.

Could you sketch that out, I am none the wiser?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by JtS - 06-05-2008 11:18

---

I've posted the Senegal kit on the Juande thread... like that

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 06-05-2008 11:22

---

I see it as essentially forming two right angle triangles on the back, leaving a "home plate" shaped block for the name and number.

In any event, in response to your plea (and with apologies for putting Orient's braces on the other thread), Dortmund are returning to something approaching reason after a few years of sheer madness:

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/may0809kits/borussia\_dortmund-08-09-nike-home-kit.jpg

As I mentioned last year, Italian teams generally don't launch their new kits until much closer to the start of the new season.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 06-05-2008 11:31

---

Isn't the lad on the right above the same one as in the Sevilla kit and in the Bilbao monstrosity on the bad kits thread (if that isn't too much cross-threading, Harry)?

Who is this bad kits magnet player?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 06-05-2008 11:31

---

Brum combine a slight delusions of grandeur Ajax homage with a message suitable for a season in the second flight ;

http://i27.photobucket.com/albums/c199/scottpeterthomas/birmingham\_city-08-09-umbro-away-sh.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 06-05-2008 11:47

---

Nah, it's just the increasing globalisation of footballer expressions and haircuts.

The Sevilla guy is Josep Luis Marti (now on loan at Real Sociedad). The Dortmund player on their right (viewer's left) is Sebastian Kehl (the other guy with the centre parting is Diego Klimowicz). I'm not sure who the Athletic Bilbao guys are (it might be Ustaritz and Llorente; in any case they both look as if they very much hope no one ever sees the photo).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bafflin Smoke Signals - 06-05-2008 12:47

---

the cookie-cutter similarity of their national team shirts (especially the African ones) mandating use of the qualifier

Cameroon's strips being the qualifier within your qualifier, of course.

Sleeveless:

<http://img521.imageshack.us/img521/3850/cameroon sleevelessro4.jpg>

---

And the legendary one-piece:

<http://img291.imageshack.us/img291/5958/cameroonpumaonepieceda4.jpg>

I've always wondered why they did that (apart from the massive publicity engendered, of course). It's not like the average fat fan is going to be seen wandering about in one, so replica kit sales would be very low.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 06-05-2008 12:48

---

The salmon pink kit I mentioned in the starting post was a Liverpool away kit. I remember a daft friend of mine buying one and being forced to bully him mercilessly. I have looked around the net for it, and the closest I seem to be able to find was the away kit from 97. They gave the colour a really strange name that noone (especially from Liverpool) had ever heard of. It looked like pale salmon pink up close. Maybe my friend's mum had washed it with his red Liverpool socks which made it look worse.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 06-05-2008 12:52

---

Liverpool's change kit in 96/97 was "ecru" and in 97/98 it was yellow.

I can't find "salmon pink" in this pretty exhaustive collection

I think your friend's mum has a lot of explaining to do.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 06-05-2008 12:59

---

Thank you for putting the "ecru" in quotation marks, Harry.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 06-05-2008 13:01

---

Bafflin, I was referring to Puma's more recent approach to African national team kits. They've been able to parlay their success with Cameroon (they actually did sell quite a few of the sleeveless ones and got LOTS of publicity for the "unitard") into contracts with a majority of the teams that played in the most recent ANC (the fact that Hayatou, the long-time president of the CAF, is from Cameroon hasn't hurt either).

Unfortunately, they made all the teams look very much alike (especially those that play in white).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 06-05-2008 16:13

---

Portsmouth's new away shirt;

<http://i27.photobucket.com/albums/c199/scottpeterthomas/portsmouth-canterbury-08-09-away-sh.jpg>

---

OUCH! That is a really poor kit, let's just hope they aren't allowed to sully Britain's good name by wearing it in the UEFA Cup next season.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 06-05-2008 16:55

---

It looks like a one day cricket shirt.

And if your home kit is blue (and you play in a league with several teams that play in white), why would you have an white away kit with blue sleeves? Canterbury must really want to push the black "third".

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 06-05-2008 17:00

---

It actually looks like a bowling shirt. Now, I like bowling shirts but football kits should not be mistaken for them. I like both current main Canterbury kits but this is wrong.

Portsmouth have been market leaders in switching to change kits superfluously as well, witness the game at Boro at the weekend and their mutiple crime of switching when playing an opponent in claret & (sky) blue.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by jamzinho - 06-05-2008 17:53

---

I really like the Dortmund combo, especially the pin stripes on the socks. Much better than recent efforts

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Inca - 06-05-2008 18:14

---

Didn't some club recently wear pink for one game for breast cancer awareness?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by dgllh - 06-05-2008 18:43

---

I don't know if Pompey take full credit for kit changing against Manchester City right now.

The deal was meant to be we get cheaper shirts. We do, but an awful lot more of them. I think we ran through at least two away shirts this season, maybe even three.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Rogin the Armchair Fan - 06-05-2008 19:02

---

It was Everton, not Liverpool, who experimented with the salmon pink away kit in the mid 90s.

I thought it looked quite good, as it happens. I look good in pink, a bit like a Sicilian cyclist.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by jamzinho - 06-05-2008 19:14

---

Everton had the pink kit for breast cancer last season, but I think it was a limited edition one, not actually worn in any match.

<http://i78.photobucket.com/albums/j103/abu645/pinkshirt.jpg>

Coventry had an Ajax style away shirt about 4 years ago. It was nowhere as good looking as the new Birmingham version.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Rogin the Armchair Fan - 06-05-2008 19:17

---

No, Everton definitely had a salmon pink away kit one season. Apparently it was their original colours, or something, it was in their centenary season.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by twohundredpercent - 06-05-2008 19:28

---

Here's that terrible Everton away kit:

<http://www.adrianbullock.com/swfc/original/93-94/Pictures/bright3.gif>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 06-05-2008 21:36

---

In some cases I am not sure whats worse.

With Forest our kit designers seem to be some of the laziest in the world. We have to fork out for a new kit which is barely different from the previous years. Our away kit only changes in colour and certainly not style. Normally in a cycle of yellow, white and blue.

Currently we are in white so it'll be blue next time.

But those kit manufacturers who do try something a bit different end up getting stick because the changes are too great. Eg the new Pompey shirt above. Or to greater extremes Everton's pink kit or even Man Utd's infamous grey kit etc.

Is there no middle ground with these people?

The Liverpool kit I was on about at the start was the "Ecru" one. It looked like pale salmon pink to me.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Reed of the Valley People - 07-05-2008 01:01

---

Black and pink isn't necessarily awful, but black socks with the neon pink kit that has no other black in it makes him look like a color-blind German tourist in Miami on vacation.

I'm still opposed to the idea of clubs changing their colors at random just to sell more away shirts. As Seinfeld said, rooting for a sports team is essentially rooting for laundry, and that laundry ought to keep some sort of identity over the years, or what's the point of having team colors? Without a visual identity, they might as well just play shirts and skins or just hand out yellow and red pinnies like an intramural game.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 07-05-2008 10:16

---

<http://www.umbro.com>

Thought i'd take a look at the umbro site, see if they had any news on our new kit. Two things to point out, "Oh my god", this opening video for the site is really funny. Nice to see Shearer's making some money for the voiceover. He sounds like he's trying to imitate Che Guevara

Secondly you only get a mention if you're a top division side from anywhere in the world or an International team. Quite sad really.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 07-05-2008 10:17

---

It has been hard getting a copy of the St PAuli camofalge one. I am getting the idea that crap kits are having their history wiped out in a Stalinist fashion

Anyway

<http://tbn0.google.com/images?q=tbn:zIKNZpQHi31fnM:http://www.subsidesports.com/uk/images/product/xlarge/StPauliHLS0506.jpg>

I am not sure whether I love it or hate it

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 07-05-2008 10:28

---

OGCN Nice are using a "camouflage" "third" this season, with an even more "aggressive" campaign than St. Pauli.

This image (of "hard man" Cyril Rool) is from their official site:

<http://img175.imageshack.us/img175/6582/roolcamouflagewu3.jpg>

We saw Nice play OL on Saturday, and saw quite a few of these kits on the terraces (where one generally doesn't see too many replica kits in France).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 07-05-2008 10:30

---

<http://www.footy-boots.com/new-adidas-chelsea-kit-2008-3939/>

Chelsea's new offering, looks boring to me and that's not even mentioning the c**t in it.

This is a bit strong though. No excuses for standing on Cech's head this year!

<http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/april0809/chelsea-08-09-adidas-gk-kit-shirt.jpg>

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 07-05-2008 11:59

---

twohundredpercent wrote:

Here's that terrible Everton away kit:

<http://www.adrianbullock.com/swfc/original/93-94/Pictures/bright3.gif>

No, as mentioned on page one of this thread that kit was good, especially with the standard navy blue shorts. That photo has poor quality colour repro.

The motto on the badge was spelt incorrectly though, which was a shame.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 07-05-2008 12:00

---

harbinger of hope wrote:

<http://www.umbro.com>

Thought i'd take a look at the umbro site, see if they had any news on our new kit.

Unlikely, as covered on the Walesathon (slight return) it is being made by Champion.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Paxton Sprout - 07-05-2008 12:36

---

Where's Berbatov then eh?

The now annual kit change.

<http://www.tottenhamhotspur.com/images/articles/7771-6.jpg>

"To wear is to do" is not only bollocks but has taken the clubs latin motto 'Audere Est Facere', turned it into a dumbed down version for modern times 'To dare is to do' and finally made it into a marketing slogan.

The only thing THFC hasn't 'sold' to date is the stadium name.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 08-05-2008 08:41

---

Although it is a nice enough kit, Chelsea have fucked it up with the assymetry of those badges. They will win nothing next year and that is the reason why. You read it here first

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by finney - 08-05-2008 12:45

---

Bored Of The Dance wrote:

It has been hard getting a copy of the St PAuli camofalge one. I am getting the idea that crap kits are having their history wiped out in a Stalinist fashion

---

Anyway

<http://tbn0.google.com/images?q=tbn:zIKNZpQHi31fnM:http://www.subsidesports.com/uk/images/product/xlarge/StPauliHLS0506.jpg>

I am not sure whether I love it or hate it

Not as good as when St Pauli had the Jack Daniels kit that was class

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 08-05-2008 13:03

---

Would that be this one

http://links.pictures.aol.com/pic/4ff0\*MMwNRcZu91Kp5t4jcnaDhRQBtTV3VKlv4xQp5Fd3lg=\_l.jpg

that , due to the generosity of Hoo-Ha Harry, is in my wardrobe

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bombanero - 09-05-2008 15:06

---

<http://www.iltalehti.fi/nettitvpopup.shtml?27980313>

Check out RoPS's away strip.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 11-05-2008 14:54

---

I might be wrong on this but I am pretty sure that Chelsea are playing in next years kit today. Cech's flourescent orange kit, (shown in a picture previously on this thread) is unmistakable.

Since when did teams start wearing next years kit in the last game of the Season??

Has any other team done this before? I did find the fact that their kit was announced very early odd. Now i think i have found the reason

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 11-05-2008 15:03

---

It has happened A LOT in the past. Portsmouth are wearing their new away kit today for example.

Shouldn't be allowed.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 11-05-2008 15:07

---

Maybe its certain manufacturers that do it. I can't ever remember Forest doing it. According to the Forest website our kits still not even been announced and our season finished over a week ago.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Kowalski - 11-05-2008 17:34

---

It used to happen more than you think;

Spurs

1987 Cup Final

<http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEUDUDNO/Misc/aaaa1.jpg>

1991 Cup Final

<http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEUDUDNO/Misc/aaaa3.jpg>

Everton

1989 Cup Final

<http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEUDUDNO/Misc/aaaa2.jpg>

1995 Cup Final

<http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEUDUDNO/Misc/aaaa4.jpg>

Liverpool

1985 European Cup Final

<http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEUDUDNO/Misc/aaaa5.jpg>

All these kits were different from the one worn during the rest of the season

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 11-05-2008 17:49

---

I am amazed it has happened as much as this and thankyou for your input.

However (looking at this pedantically) I must point out that during the years shown above, i notice they are all Cup finals. The FA Cup Final and certainly European Cup Final were normally always staged after the regular league season had finished. As opposed to Chelsea today, where they were in the last league game of the season. ie slightly earlier.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Kowalski - 11-05-2008 17:56

---

Here's another question, when was the last time a team wore a kit that they didn't sell as a replica?

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 11-05-2008 18:02

---

The year when Wimbledon (RIP) changed their shirt sponser about 5 times in the same season? Although the kit style/colour did not change, was each kit with the different sponser name on the front sold?

---

What about the special Man Utd, Man City shirts from the derby this season? No idea if these were actually sold.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 11-05-2008 18:03

---

Manchester United and Manchester City played in those 1950s kits earlier in the season. These weren't for sale.

It's still a good question. My guess would be an odd third kit created for a specific purpose (other than the usual "for making money").

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orangey Thing - 11-05-2008 18:13

---

On the final day of last season, Sheffield United not only wore their new kit, but also sported squad numbers in the new Premier League font for 2007/8.

Their relegation was thus well merited (er, ignoring all the West Ham business, of course).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Gangster Octopus - 11-05-2008 18:25

---

Kowalski wrote:

Here's another question, when was the last time a team wore a kit that they didn't sell as a replica? When I walked to Borehamwood with the Wealdstone fans back in 2001, I was impressed by the kit that the home team turned out in. It was white with thin black stripes and had the same sponsors as the Millers. I tried to buy a replica, but I was told that they had none for sale. I'm assuming that this is exactly what you're talking about.

Obviously this was before my (and an ex-otter's) run-in with Borehamwood fans...

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by nuts n gum - 11-05-2008 19:28

---

Of teams wearing new kits in the league -

Liverpool did it last week and presumably today.

I'm pretty sure Spurs did it against Blackburn a few seasons back?

Manchester City wore their away kit at home to Middlesbrough when they could only draw 1-1 and miss out on the UEFA cup.

Speaking of "what a rip" kits - Villa have a black 3rd strip, to my knowledge-it has not been worn once, and the sponsor is being changed at the end of the season. It costs £50 to buy from the club shop too.

I'd be sad to see the back of our current away strip though, which is the best we've had since 1990.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 11-05-2008 20:22

---

---

harbinger of hope wrote:

I am amazed it has happened as much as this and thankyou for your input.

However (looking at this pedantically) I must point out that during the years shown above, i notice they are all Cup finals. The FA Cup Final and certainly European Cup Final were normally always staged after the regular league season had finished. As opposed to Chelsea today, where they were in the last league game of the season. ie slightly earlier.

In recent seasons there seem to have been about 25% and upwards of teams in the PL and FL debut their new kit on the last game (or home game) of the season.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 11-05-2008 20:24

harbinger of hope wrote:

The year when Wimbledon (RIP) changed their shirt sponser about 5 times in the same season? Although the kit style/colour did not change, was each kit with the different sponser name on the front sold?

I think that was Chelsea, not Wimbledon.

What about the special Man Utd, Man City shirts from the derby this season? No idea if these were actually sold

They weren't.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 11-05-2008 20:26

Kowalski wrote:

Here's another question, when was the last time a team wore a kit that they didn't sell as a replica?

Wales wore a one-off kit for the 2-1 away win over Denmark in the late Nineties. I blagged a replica from Lotto but none were sold.

Coversely, Wales have sold replicas of shirts they have only ever worn once (and possibly one they never wore. I will have to check 'True Colours' which really should be entry level reading for all these threads).

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 11-05-2008 21:31

Until they were relegated from the Prem, Wimbledon were the team who had changed their kit more often than any other. Liverpool were next.

Which is weird, as Baddiel and Skinner led me to believe that MUF CPLC changed their kit every twenty seconds.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 11-05-2008 23:09

Harry Parsons wrote:

harbinger of hope wrote:

What about the special Man Utd, Man City shirts from the derby this season? No idea if these were actually sold

---

They weren't.

Small correction - the City one was, because it wasn't a 'special' shirt, it was just their normal one without the sponsor's logo - and should thus be available from the club shop. The United one wasn't sold because the club didn't want to be seen to be 'cashing in' on that particular part of the club's history. Which would be very noble if... well.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 11-05-2008 23:14

---

I doubt City sell sponsorless shirts (or many clubs, possibly those with alcohol sponsors remove them from children's kits), the shirt for the derby also had a 'Manchester Remembers' logo on it.

Spurs, Sunderland and Boro debuted new kits today, adding to Portsmouth, Chelsea and Liverpool (who switched to the old kit today after using the new one at Anfield last week) as clubs from the EPL getting the new kit out early

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 11-05-2008 23:23

---

EIM wrote:

Until they were relegated from the Prem, Wimbledon were the team who had changed their kit more often than any other. Liverpool were next.

Which is weird, as Baddiel and Skinner led me to believe that MUFCLC changed their kit every twenty seconds.

I'm not sure you're correct, where are those facts from?

According to the exhaustive lists and illustrations of every kit in the very reliable 'True Colours' by John Devline, in the period 92/93 (start of the EPL) to 2005/6 Liverpool had 23 different kits to Man U's 26 (one of them reversible!).

I strongly doubt Wimbledon managed more than either.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Phoebe Disco - 11-05-2008 23:53

---

Feh. Mere amateurs.

Birmingham City have had at least 38 in that time. One home, away and third kit every season, except for 92-93, when they had two home kits. As I said on the Spurs kit thread the other day, the last time Birmingham went into a new season without changing the shirt design it was 1989.

The seventeen home kits are here: http://www.historicalkits.co.uk/Birmingham\_City/Birmingham\_City.htm

The away kits are also here, although they may have missed some: http://www.kitclassics.co.uk/kits/birm\_c.gif

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 11-05-2008 23:55

---

Those facts are from me, and are therefore correct, Harry.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Phoebe Disco - 12-05-2008 00:20

---

Kowalski wrote:

Here's another question, when was the last time a team wore a kit that they didn't sell as a replica?

I'll set the ball rolling in March 2002. Ipswich play at Blackburn, with their blue home kit and white away kit both clashing. The away kit expires in two months, we've already voted on the new one, but instead they produce a one-off black shirt, which is never seen again.

The only photo I can find is in the inset here:

http://www.tmwmtt.com/history\_images/shirts\_f19.jpg

Ipswich have a bit of history here in this respect. In 1997 both our kits clashed when we played Torquay, so we played in a white kit we never wore again, or sold. In 92/93 we had a gorgeous black and red striped kit that we wore about six times, but despite repeat requests, the club refused to put it on sale. When they finally did sell a third kit (used as a one off in 2003 against Palace) they limited the numbers, it sold out in two hours. We now have an official third kit, but it looks like it won't be replaced at the end of the season.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 12-05-2008 00:24

---

FC United took to the field in all blue against Fleetwood in the FA Cup this year. It was the first time, I think, that we'd worn our third kit and the shirt wasn't available to buy, nor would the club consider releasing it despite the high demand.

But such are the benefits of being a fan owned club, were merely voted to change the away kit from the beautiful white with black sash to the all blue from next season.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 12-05-2008 00:25

---

<http://www.fcgallery.co.uk/3b.jpg>

And here's a Fleetwood player so eager to get his hands on the shirt, he's trying to steal it from our midfield mentalist, Simon Carden.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orangey Thing - 12-05-2008 08:48

---

in the very reliable 'True Colours' by John Devline

Not that reliable. He describes the shorts on Ipswich's current away kit as black, when they are in fact navy. Tsk.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Zorg the Leveller - 12-05-2008 08:52

---

Here's Watford's new kit. Looking, ummm, rather similar to the current one. Which surely defeats the objective of changing every season...

<http://www.watfordfc.premiumtv.co.uk/javalimages/5a/e0/0,,10400~3661914,00.jpg>

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 12-05-2008 11:05

---

Hot Orangey Thing wrote:
in the very reliable 'True Colours' by John Devline

Not that reliable. He describes the shorts on Ipswich's current away kit as black, when they are in fact navy. Tsk.

That's his website I presume? The book is the bible.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 12-05-2008 11:06

---

Zorg the Leveller wrote:
Here's Watford's new kit. Looking, ummm, rather similar to the current one. Which surely defeats the objective of changing every season...

<http://www.watfordfc.premiumtv.co.uk/javalmages/5a/e0/0,,10400~3661914,00.jpg>

May the curse of your black shorts continue.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 12-05-2008 11:10

---

Phoebe Disco wrote:
Feh. Mere amateurs.

Birmingham City have had at least 38 in that time. One home, away and third kit every season, except for 92-93, when they had two home kits. As I said on the Spurs kit thread the other day, the last time Birmingham went into a new season without changing the shirt design it was 1989.

The seventeen home kits are here: http://www.historicalkits.co.uk/Birmingham\_City/Birmingham\_City.htm

The away kits are also here, although they may have missed some: http://www.kitclassics.co.uk/kits/birm\_c.gif

I didn't mention Birmingham as I thought we had covered their status as Kit Chameleon Kings in length before. Cardiff have, I believe, almost matched Birmingham in the period save for one infuriating consistency between two seasons.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by nuts n gum - 12-05-2008 11:19

---

Just noticed that Villa have had a new home and away kit every season since 1997. This included 3 awful kits - the almost pink and baby blue monstrosity from 99/2000, our fa cup final appearing season, the "not too bad shirt but what's that, blue shorts!?" of 00/01, and the purple home shirt in 2001/02. Not to mention the black, grey and yellow away kits in recent years...

I still quite like this one though, because it's so bad it can't be bettered.

http://i11.ebayimg.com/02/i/000/ee/0b/6eb3\_1.JPG

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 12-05-2008 11:26

---

I'm surprised you haven't mentioned the "St Andrews Blue" away kit, n&g?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orangey Thing - 12-05-2008 12:07

---

That's his website I presume? The book is the bible.

No, it's in the book. He has a website?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 12-05-2008 12:20

---

<http://www.truecoloursfootballkits.com/>

I didn't think Vol 2 of the book was up to date enough to feature any current kits, my mistake.

Still, the increasing blackness of navy blue has caused comment on here before.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 12-05-2008 12:22

---

I thought so!

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Parsons - 12-05-2008 12:23

---

The best time of the year?

Posted by John Devlin

As a football fan and a football kit, fan April kicks off a wonderful time of the year. Not only is the season drawing to a climax with hopefully, from a neutral's point of view, a few twists and turns in the battle for titles, cups, promotions and relegations but its also the time when next season's kits and being premiered or at least leaked.

Football wise, the end of this season looks to be even thrilling with Chelsea's magnificent win over Man Utd yesterday blowing the Premier League, if not wide open, but at least partly ajar. All Utd need to do now is keep their nerve. We've got two cracking Champions League semis coming, followed hopefully by an all-English final. Rangers may make it to the UEFA Cup final and in the lower English leagues its extremely tight. The Championship sees several major clubs who really do belong in the top flight battling for precious promotion places along with some equally big names at the other end battling relegation.

Plus this summer of course we have Euro 2008 to look forward to!

But for me its the new kits that really make it an exciting time. Although it seems to be slightly out of fashion these days, the last match of the season was always an opportunity to show off the strip for the forthcoming season. The Cup final was always a fine example of this throwing up several anomalies such as the Everton strip premiered in the 1995 final which was the only time the design was sponsored by outgoing sponsors for 94-95, NEC. Danka took over the shirt deal for the 95-96 season itself.

---

Nowadays, its the internet that provides the outlet for the new strips. Leaked pictures of new strips often appear many months before their official unveiling. Unfortunately some are fakes, either concocted on Photoshop by fans with too much time on their hands, or in some cases put out as red herrings by kit manufacturers to confuse the bootleggers. Either way, football kit devotees such as myself spend everyday at this time of year scanning the web looking for the new designs and being either excited or disappointed by the fare on offer.

This season looks to be no different; already we've seen fine new outfits for Chelsea and Liverpool along with news of the continued resurgence of Umbro.

What trends will the new season bring? I'd imagine there will still be plenty of black/navy blue change strips knocking about - a quick and easy fix to the age old away kit design dilemma. I think there may be more switching of traditional shorts colours to create single colour kits - probably in an attempt to work with FIFA's increasingly strict rules over colour clashes.

We may also see an increase in advertising/logos on English club shirts. Witness Portsmouth/ Canterbury's introduction of additional branding mid-season on their jerseys. Simple designs and standard templates seem to be coming back in to fashion with some of the more outlandish designs being mothballed with team wearing similar kits to each other, differing only in hue. Plain and simple strips are what football fans prefer - football kit fans however like to see bright and dynamic designs with innovative styling. However, it must be remembered that although kits do provide a valuable source of income for clubs via replica sales, they are there primarily a job uniform. Their sole purpose is really just to differentiate between teams on the pitch (and to some extent on the terraces!) and this doctrine appears to be the method statement for kit designs in 08-09.

By the way, for those of you desperate for the new kits pre-season may I recommend you to two fine sites that are always first on the ball with such news:

www.colours-of-football.com
www.footballshirtculture.com

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Allez Fritz - 12-05-2008 17:49

Quite like the spurs kit but the board have no shame they are charging an outrageous £60 for the home shirt. maybe its a ploy to sell the second and third kits which are a comparative bargain at £45 a shirt.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 21-05-2008 19:38

QUOTE: Thought i'd take a look at the umbro site, see if they had any news on our new kit.

Unlikely, as covered on the Walesathon (slight return) it is being made by Champion.

UMBRO have announced a release date for our kit, although not released any full pictures. Not sure why you thought it was made by Champion. Especially as our Chairman is Mr.UMBRO

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Fred Keenor - 22-05-2008 00:15

Ah, apologies HoH. I thought the question was from a fellow Wales supporter.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by dgllh - 22-05-2008 01:45

---

Allez Fritz wrote:

Quite like the spurs kit but the board have no shame they are charging an outrageous £60 for the home shirt. maybe its a ploy to sell the second and third kits which are a comparative bargain at £45 a shirt.

Maybe enough of your dosey fans bought the limited edition shirt last year to make them think it was viable.

No offense intended.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Phoebe Disco - 23-05-2008 15:11

---

New Newcastle shirt:

<http://xs227.xs.to/xs227/08215/cock683.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 23-05-2008 17:28

---

brilliant:)

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 24-05-2008 00:39

---

A piece of kit trivia regarding Bradford City that I had never picked up on before was that they feature black in every single kit that they have worn since 1985.

"The kit has claret and amber trim and also has the traditional black as a mark of respect to those who died following the Bradford Fire Disaster in 1985. The white kit has the black incorporated into the design of a ribbon which is embroidered on the sleeve."

<http://www.footballshirtculture.com/200804231313/08/09-kits/new-bradford-city-08/09-away-surridge-kit.html>

In other kit related nonsense, did Bradford City really wear a kit with alternate colour braces in the late 70s?

<http://img207.imageshack.us/img207/3789/bradfordcityzq9.jpg>

Historic Kits seems to confirm it. Looks too fantastical to be true.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Nishlord - 24-05-2008 00:46

---

I wish they'd kept that nickname. Makes them sound like a go-go troupe.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

---

Posted by harbinger of hope - 24-05-2008 00:48

Are we miles behind the times or is a release date of 11/07/08 for a new kit normal. With Chelsea among others already playing in their new kit I am feeling a little left out. I know its a special kit to mark the 30th Anniversary (May 79..09) of us winning our first European Cup , but we must be one of the very last teams to release their home kit.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 04-06-2008 02:22

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/fsc05/linfield\_08-09\_umbro\_away\_kit\_\_shirt.jpg

I'd support these, if they all looked like this

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 04-06-2008 02:25

I replied to your PM, by the way.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 04-06-2008 08:55

mnb, Historical Football Kits has that alternate brace style listed as an alternate kit for the 76-77 season.

The regular kit was this one:

<http://img91.imageshack.us/img91/5795/bradfordcity19761977kv0.gif> which is a style I associate with Crystal Palace in their claret and blue days.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ykikamoocow - 04-06-2008 09:57

I do like Celtic's away kit (they've had some horrendous ones over the years). Not only is it simple, it's a nice shade of gold and you can buy it without the sponsor's logo.

The Bradford braces kit was on display when the BBC broadcasted their defeat at home to Southampton in the quarter finals of the FA Cup in '76. The snippet shown on Match of The 70s is also noteworthy as you do actually hear the crowd sing 'You're going to get your fucking heads kicked in.' I always thought that this chant was something of an urban myth, a bit like 'Play it Again Sam' or 'Beam Me Up, Scotty'.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 04-06-2008 19:45

Oooh.

It appears that Arsenal actually have exchanged their all white sleeves for a broad white stripe on the top of the sleeve.

Wingco is not going to be happy:

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/fsc05/arsenal\_2008\_2009\_home\_nike\_kit\_leaked.jpg

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Carpenter - 04-06-2008 22:00

Jeez, I remember worries about rioting when this was launched ;

http://i27.photobucket.com/albums/c199/scottpeterthomas/football\_shirt\_2171\_1.jpg

but the new one is even less Arsenalish. That cranberry number was obviously some kind of stalking horse.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 04-06-2008 22:08

It is a shame that Arsenal did not retain the Garibaldi red.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 04-06-2008 22:49

I believe Herbert Chapman was the first manager to demand his side wore hooped socks as it allowed teammates to spot each other easily on the pitch.

The only way this kit could possibly be saved is with the addition of hooped socks (or a jade change kit).

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by finney - 05-06-2008 12:08

harbinger of hope wrote:

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/fsc05/linfield\_08-09\_umbro\_away\_kit\_\_shirt.jpg

I'd support these, if they all looked like this

No still looks crap to me,But then again i am a Glentoran fan!

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 05-06-2008 12:21

In recent seasons there seem to have been about 25% and upwards of teams in the PL and FL debut their new kit on the last game (or home game) of the season.

I thought that kits had to be registered before the start of the season or is that just colours?

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harry Carpenter - 05-06-2008 12:23

Just colours.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 06-06-2008 18:41

---

Oh dear

http://www.jdsports.co.uk/uploads/lib/carbrini\_charlton\_11.jpg

<http://www.cafc.co.uk/uploads/charlton32473news1.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 06-06-2008 18:43

---

Wow, just wow!

I think we have a winner on poor kit.

Fuck, they're Joma the same as City, I hope that home kit is not a template of theirs.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Big Daves Gussett - 06-06-2008 18:50

---

I've learned my lesson from last season. I'm not going to comment on anyone else's kit until ours is revealed. I'm biting my tongue pretty damn hard though.*

By the way, our new shirt sponsors are FourFourTwo magazine, which I'm quite pleased about. It's not a publication I buy, but it should create a bit more exposure for the club. I wonder if our away kit will have TenNoneNone on. Ahahahahahahahahaha.

* Yes, I type with my tongue, what of it?

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Big Daves Gussett - 06-06-2008 18:52

---

Sod it, I can't hold it in. That's a relegation kit. Charlton are going down.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 06-06-2008 18:54

---

Is anyone from Swindon going to officially hand over the Worst Kit Trophy, BDG?

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Big Daves Gussett - 06-06-2008 19:02

---

I'm still confident the trophy will be remaining in Swindon.

---

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Reed of the Valley People - 06-06-2008 20:31

---

I've seen Swindon's shirts. They're very nice. Are their two Swindons?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Cavalry Trouser Tips - 07-06-2008 00:08

---

No - only one:

<http://upload.wikimedia.org/wikipedia/en/7/7e/Swindonsupermarinefc.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 07-06-2008 07:57

---

BDG! Nice to see you back.

The Charlton kits are almost Sevilla like in their Joma wrongness. The only element they lack is the crayon scribblings.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by evilC - 07-06-2008 10:12

---

Oh my god, that's heinous!

How is it possible to fuck up a strip like Charlton's? It's red ...with little white bits. FFS!

All they ever need to do is buy some Man U 1950s throwback kits and stitch a sponsor logo on the front.

While I don't think(?) they'll get relegated, that's certainly not promotion material, is it.

Ugh!

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by twohundredpercent - 07-06-2008 10:22

---

The away shirt is okay, but that home shirt is a fucking monstrosity, isn't it?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orangey Thing - 07-06-2008 10:38

---

Goodness me, that's abysmal.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Nishlord - 07-06-2008 17:25

---

---

HoH, I think this is a fake;

<http://i71.photobucket.com/albums/i157/joebiline/Forestshirt.jpg>

Wish it wasn't. That looks pretty mint by Forest standards.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 07-06-2008 19:44

---

Have to wait and see I suppose.
These are the only hints on the Forest Website.
They did say it was going to be a special 30 year anniversary one.

Teaser1
Teaser2

Hard to tell from these "teasers".

There may also be mixed views about is keeping Capital One as the sponsor, considering they are laying off lots of staff in the city.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by battylad - 08-06-2008 08:40

---

Have our resident Owls fans anything to add to this gem:

<http://www.footballshirtculture.com/200802041092/08/09-kits/controversy-over-sheffield-wednesday-kit-vote-winner.html>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 08-06-2008 13:40

---

I thought that Umbro would do a nice one for the Jacks and they have;

http://i27.photobucket.com/albums/c199/scottpeterthomas/swansea\_08\_09umbro\_home\_kit.jpg

Love the quote about the sponsor from someone at Swansea;

"As a club we worked extremely hard to attract a brand partner that matches the huge ambition of this football club."
er, but we still ended up with just the city's name and .com.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orangey Thing - 08-06-2008 13:56

---

It's a great sponsor, though. Better than "marcus evans".

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of The Dance - 08-06-2008 21:48

---

It should have a bit more black in it for me but nice.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Cavalry Trouser Tips - 08-06-2008 22:28

---

That Swansea shirt is very nice.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by jamzinho - 11-06-2008 17:29

---

The new Coventry shirt has made it onto Football Shirt Culture. Anyone got any thoughts on it?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 11-06-2008 20:21

---

Stripes again? They can fuck right off.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 11-06-2008 22:58

---

I'm starting to think your picture is right Nishlord

The next teaser is this

I'm starting to get really bored, as there is still a month until the kits release. Why do they delay so much?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Pork Pie Playboy - 12-06-2008 03:13

---

Nah, the collars are completely different.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 15-06-2008 13:20

---

I thought the point of the away kit, was to be completely different from the home kit! Having Cech in dark blue seems to go against this idea even more so than black.

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/fsc05/chelsea\_08\_09\_away\_adidas\_kit.jpg

Must also say, clubs that release away strips in the same summer as home kits are arses. Any club with any sense release home or away kits in alternate years.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Pan Tau - 15-06-2008 15:23

---

I had forgotten what Cech looked like without the gump mask.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Ant van Oviedo - 16-06-2008 06:44

---

What is really shocking about that pic is the quality of the haircuts. Dreadful.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by King Mob - 16-06-2008 08:24

---

All that's missing is the sackcloth and ashes.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bafflin Smoke Signals - 16-06-2008 12:24

---

Gosh. They look really tough, don't they.

Why is Frank Lampard sporting a prosthetic eyebrow?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by King Mob - 16-06-2008 13:42

---

A disappointing effort from Puma for Morecambe's new kit, given some of the slinky international numbers they've come up with lately:

http://newsimg.bbc.co.uk/media/images/44731000/jpg/\_44731348\_newkit203.jpg

Obviously they didn't get one of their senior designers on that one.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by twohundredpercent - 16-06-2008 21:26

---

I know it's a centenary and everything, but are they going to play the whole season in this?

<http://www.sacfc.co.uk/images/stories/newkit2208.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by King Mob - 16-06-2008 23:00

---

---

Eh? Whose kit is that?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by godot - 17-06-2008 03:06

---

King Mob wrote:

Eh? Whose kit is that?

St. Albans'.

It's their centenary this year. Seems like they'll be using it for the season and all.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 17-06-2008 09:48

---

Atleti's new kit is getting rave reviews from the supporters, who are thrilled to have the traditional stripes back on both sides.

http://marca.recoletos.es/ficheros/marca/imagenes/montaje\_camiseta08-09\_ES.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ioannis nojorakis - 17-06-2008 16:08

---

Have our resident Owls fans anything to add to this gem:

<http://www.footballshirtculture.com/200802041092/08/09-kits/controversy-over-sheffield-wednesday-kit-vote-winner.html>

Thankfully they've de-leeds it a little bit now - link here. (I'm not clever enough to put the picture up, but basically they've swapped the yellow lines with black ones and made the blue bits darker.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by tratorello - 18-06-2008 09:15

---

What is the point of Sheffield Wednesday having a white away shirt with blue shorts, surely it'll clash with just as many teams as the blue and white home kit?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 18-06-2008 10:47

---

Selling third kits.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ioannis nojorakis - 18-06-2008 11:30

---

That's a good point tractorello. I'm not sure why. Wednesday don't have a third kit (at the moment), unless the current away kit (horribly orange) becomes the third one (although they're all discounted at the moment).

---

This one is the only one for me anyway:

<https://www.medocmall.co.uk/images/theclubshop.sheffieldwednesday/products/large/5882.gif>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 18-06-2008 13:00

---

Stevenage Borough are thinking outside the box, I see.

http://www.stevenageborofc.com/index\_news\_det.php?news\_id=675

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ioannis nojorakis - 18-06-2008 13:02

---

Superb picture.

Mind you, Stevenage are spending some money this summer. Pity they haven't still got Peter Taylor to waste it all.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by E van C - 18-06-2008 13:11

---

twohundredpercent wrote:

I know it's a centenary and everything, but are they going to play the whole season in this?

<http://www.sacfc.co.uk/images/stories/newkit2208.jpg>

Blimey! Although I like that, it is basically an old-school-style ice hockey sweater. See the recent New York Rangers 'throwback-style' sweaters, for example:

http://image01.demandmade.com/IMGSRV/s/product\_media/21266.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Stumpy Pepys - 18-06-2008 13:12

---

ioannis nojorakis wrote:

This one is the only one for me anyway:

I disagree. It's missing the name of some confectionary on the front.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 18-06-2008 15:21

---

Nah, it's mint. Especially the owl.

That Rangers sweater is bizarre. They never used quasi-Italic letters like that, and the navy only came in with their Statue of Liberty "third" in the last decade.

---

I presumed that St. Albans were going for the crowd that bought all of those ManUtd/Newton Heath numbers in green and yellow.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 18-06-2008 16:36

---

If the St Albans shirt is anything like as uncomfortable-looking as this Welsh Cup only one ;

http://news.bbc.co.uk/olmedia/440000/images/\_443338\_furry2180.jpg

Then players are going to get themselves sent off just to rid themselves of it early.

The replica was the worst quality fabric (even for a football shirt) I have ever touched. It gives me a rash just thinking about it.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Kowalski - 18-06-2008 21:37

---

I saw someone wearing that in a Super Furries Gig in Llandudno, I thought it looked quite good. I think Cardiff wore it in the Premier Cup and lost to Bangor at Ninian.

Newport did a similar thing with Goldie Lookin' Chain

<http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEDUDNO/Misc/AA.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 19-06-2008 06:57

---

WTF?

Is it supposed to be bling? Or is a Lord Mayor vibe?

Harry, it strikes me that the Cardiff shirt would have been great in a decent fabric. You may have had crap teams, but you've had some excellent sponsors (the SuperTed one comes immediately to mind).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 19-06-2008 14:36

---

Sempronio Carpentiere wrote:

The replica was the worst quality fabric (even for a football shirt) I have ever touched. It gives me a rash just thinking about it.

Some of the early 90s Cardiff shirts, the ones sponsored by the South Wales Echo, were made of a incredibly stretchy material that I haven't felt on any garment since.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by jamzinho - 19-06-2008 16:48

---

I sat next to a Welsh guy wearing that GLC top at the fifth day of the second test of the last Ashes tour in Adelaide. I didn't manage to find out which team he was supporting though - I assume England as he left as soon as it got embarrassing.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by jamzinho - 19-06-2008 16:49

---

What is this news of Liverpool having a blueish third kit I see on FSC?

Surely wearing BLUE + LIVERPOOL = EVERTON ???

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 19-06-2008 16:54

---

Er, it's green isn't it?

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by jamzinho - 19-06-2008 16:59

---

Really? I guess it's some way between the two, but not really a colour that should be associated with Liverpool.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 20-06-2008 08:50

---

New Liverpool kits, you say?

<http://afcliverpool.org.uk/go/wp-content/uploads/2008/06/afclhomelarge1.jpg>

<http://afcliverpool.org.uk/go/wp-content/uploads/2008/06/afclawaylarge.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 20-06-2008 09:08

---

They need Mao caps to go with those.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 20-06-2008 09:19

---

I reckon they're Sunday League-tastic.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 20-06-2008 09:24

---

<http://images.vector-images.com/200/china.gif>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Nishlord - 20-06-2008 11:22

---

The white curly bits on the home shirt seem to resemble some cartoon-like waft from the armpits.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Cavalry Trouser Tips - 20-06-2008 19:18

---

So not only have we got a new chairman who gave us £100 season tickets, we also have a great-looking new home shirt (with stripes round the back).

I love my club again.

<http://www.htafc.premiumtv.co.uk/javalimages/a7/f7/0,,10312~3667879,00.jpg>

Here's our special gold centenary cash-in number too:

<http://www.htafc.premiumtv.co.uk/javalimages/3c/64/0,,10312~3695676,00.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 20-06-2008 19:29

---

I see the WSC Howl has stolen my Stevenage Borough picture, the plagiarising bastards!

Er, Liverpool and green?

<http://www.whoateallthepies.tv/Liverpool1992.bmp>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Crusoe - 20-06-2008 22:20

---

Oldham's new away kit.

Selected by public vote.

I didn't vote for it.

<http://www.oldhamathletic.premiumtv.co.uk/javalimages/61/4e/0,,10337~3690081,00.jpg>

Fluorescent yellow. Nasty.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 20-06-2008 22:53

---

He's wearing the kit his beard deserves.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by harbinger of hope - 23-06-2008 02:04

---

<http://i71.photobucket.com/albums/i157/joebiline/Forestshirt.jpg>

Finally all is sort of revealed. It did look like that one Nish found after all.(shown above). Kelvin Wilson and Julian Bennett doing the biz below.

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/fsc6/nottingham\_forest\_08\_09\_home\_umbro\_kit.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Sempronio Carpentiere - 23-06-2008 07:12

---

If they'd asked my four year old, she would have done a better job of the commemorative lettering around the badge.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Danger Mouse - 23-06-2008 19:28

---

He's wearing the kit his beard deserves.

See? That's why we got shut. That and the wage deferral thing.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Kurt Mondschein - 30-06-2008 21:48

---

Good design for a t-shirt.
Not for a football shirt.
This is very sad.

<http://www.bild.de/BILD/sport/fussball/zweite-liga/2008/07/01/1860-muenchen-trikot/daniel-birofka-mit-models-im-neuen-loewen-trikot-9682724-mfbq,templatelid=renderScaled,property=Bild,height=349.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 30-06-2008 22:49

---

I actually think that would be bearable for a change kit but not the first kit ( I have no idea why I have different standards though ) . Which is it?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by dogbeak - 01-07-2008 08:39

---

newcastle in shit away shirt shocker:

<http://www.nufc.com/2008-09images/2008-09away-shirt-l2.jpg>

---

it's a horrible colour and it looks like a training top. (it might have been mentioned already, half the images in this thread are blocked on my work pc.)

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Amor de Cosmos - 02-07-2008 15:14

---

Well they didn't mess with the hoops too much (they go all the way around — big sighs of relief.) I really don't like the sleeves but I'm in a minority I think. The stitching/piping is silver which is a bit gauche. In fact, along with the tacky new badge and the gold Gulf Air eagle the overall effect is bit Blingish I think. But no one listens to me so what can you do ?

<http://i3.photobucket.com/albums/y64/Pudster/Newshirt.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 02-07-2008 15:26

---

That is appalling, it challenges Charlton's as the worst yet.

The terrible badge, the collar, the intrusive manufacturer's logo on chest and sleeves, the sleeves full stop, the sponsor's logo that manages to be both busily irritating and (I would imagine) totally ineffective as it won't be legible unless you're within three feet.

Rubbish, rubbish, rubbish.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 03-07-2008 13:56

---

Oh dear.

Lens:

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/fsc6/lens\_08\_09\_home\_away\_nike\_kit.jpg

and Chivas (CD Guadalajara)

http://www.footballshirtculture.com/images/stories/fsc6/chivas\_08\_09\_home\_reebok\_shirt.jpg

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by King Mob - 03-07-2008 14:02

---

The Lens one is awesome.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jimmy Bignutz - 03-07-2008 14:04

---

That Lens one is based on a Swedish team, I think - IFK Battenberg.

OK...

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 03-07-2008 14:27

---

<http://img300.imageshack.us/img300/6396/8611092thirdtk1.png>

Our old ultra-rare third shirt is our new away shirt. We love it.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 03-07-2008 14:44

---

The Lens one is lush (the badge fitting inside one square is a nice touch), they are on a great run of ace shirts. Unfortunately, as ever, it will look awful when they plaster all their sponsors' logos over it.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by finney - 03-07-2008 14:51

---

Amor de Cosmos wrote:

Well they didn't mess with the hoops too much (they go all the way around — big sighs of relief.) I really don't like the sleeves but I'm in a minority I think. The stitching/piping is silver which is a bit gauche. In fact, along with the tacky new badge and the gold Gulf Air eagle the overall effect is bit Blingish I think. But no one listens to me so what can you do ?

<http://i3.photobucket.com/albums/y64/Pudster/Newshirt.jpg>

Thing is that Lotto make such crap kits i was shocked that it was just average. The Badge looks cheap and nasty and says nothing about the QPR that i support. The away kits are woeful trust me and are standard Lotto crap Please QPR dump the badge my six year could do better.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Inca - 03-07-2008 14:57

---

You know, I would normally think that Chivas fans would be outraged, but I think they could do anything and the fans would still love them.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 03-07-2008 14:58

---

Bimbo?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 03-07-2008 15:02

---

The largest bakery in Mexico.

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 03-07-2008 15:03

---

Nice baps, I'd wager.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by imp - 03-07-2008 15:34

---

Mexican kits are amazing - when Morelia played at DC last year they had seven different sponsors' names on various parts of their kit, including their socks. I was sitting next to their press bloke, and he said that was pretty standard for Mexican teams. Gives a very 'busy' effect.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 03-07-2008 15:48

---

<http://www.chessbase.com/news/2006/linares/morelia161.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Amor de Cosmos - 03-07-2008 17:00

---

Finney: Have you seen the away shirt yet?

The shirts may be bad but just get a load of this mascot — WTF!

<http://i3.photobucket.com/albums/y64/Pudster/Mascot.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 08-07-2008 14:49

---

Oh dear. Have the children been exiled to the French Foreign Legion?

In other news, Kappa have found a taker for some extra Roma shirts they had lying around the warehouse:

http://www.werder-fanshop.de/bilder/produkte/09-10006\_gr.jpg

The new Werder Bremen "chili" (seriously) third shirt.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Pretend Best Friend - 08-07-2008 14:53

---

Harry's excitement will be building daily. With just four weeks to go til the league season starts, Cardiff City have yet to even announce a launch date for next season's kit, never mind actually releasing some pictures. This despite the design being voted for by the fans about six months ago.

Any other teams left who haven't shown their hand yet?

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Nishlord - 08-07-2008 14:57

---

Oh dear. If they don't hurry up, they'll be made to play in vest and pants all season.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Pretend Best Friend - 08-07-2008 14:59

---

Apparently however, we have told the football league that our away strip will be "mulberry" coloured.

Which is a bit different I suppose.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 08-07-2008 15:36

---

The "mulberry" news was covered on the alternative and to my mind superior other kit thread.

I am going to have to curate an official New Kit Gallery every season as I'm unhappy with the lack of traffic on either of the current ones in relation to the definitive one in the old place.

I have zero hope for this year's kit, give what we already know of it and the shambles the rest of the summer has been at Cardiff's Stade de Farce.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 08-07-2008 15:55

---

I specifically chose this thread for the Bremen news because it is difficult for me to conceive of a better illustration of the sentiment expressed in its title.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 08-07-2008 16:12

---

I think it's the title of this thread I have the most problem with, who has ever said "What a rip"?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Furtho - 08-07-2008 16:25

---

I think I did as a child (an abbreviation, if this needs to be pointed out, of the obviously-far-too-long "what a rip-off"). But, y'know, not for thirty-odd years.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 08-07-2008 16:26

---

---

I've heard it from more than one American, and may even have uttered the phrase myself.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by battylad - 08-07-2008 17:50

---

They are still keeping the new Leeds shirt under wraps, but this has leaked out so far - not much to go on mind...

<http://i277.photobucket.com/albums/kk53/pnh1/Newkit.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by nuts n gum - 09-07-2008 00:17

---

New Villa home shirt a size too big:

<http://www.avfc.premiumtv.co.uk/javalmages/fa/8b/0,,10265~3705850,00.jpg> away:

<http://www.avfc.premiumtv.co.uk/javalmages/fc/8b/0,,10265~3705852,00.jpg> which reminds me of a kit we wore with LDV sponsor in 1998..

not bad i suppose, could be worse, the sponsor logo is plain and too the point (and more importantly, a good cause).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 09-07-2008 08:09

---

I think they are quite good, though the similarity in the blue used in the two kits is a bit strange. My only significant quibble is Nike's continuing inability to understand that sleeves are sleeves, and not some sleeve/shoulder combo. You still made out much better than Arsenal in that respect, though.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 09-07-2008 09:02

---

"Amazing" new away kit, with some sort of weird Batman body armour look on the back.

http://www.megastore.whufc.com/product\_images/maxzoom/prd\_maxzoom\_whfc-43201.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jimmy Bignutz - 09-07-2008 09:04

---

That's weird, innit

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 09-07-2008 09:38

---

Yup.

I can see someone plotting West Ham's position in the table this season against the stuff on the back.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Gangster Octopus - 09-07-2008 09:51

---

Pretend Best Friend wrote:

Any other teams left who haven't shown their hand yet?

An unsurprising "Yup" from The Don Valley...

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by twohundredpercent - 09-07-2008 11:52

---

I find the delay in the launch of West Ham's new home kit (and they are, according to the official website, having one) most intriguing. Was it West Ham that ended up having to start the season without sponsors because of some balls up a few years ago?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Football - 09-07-2008 12:00

---

That West Ham reminds me of the england kit on the left of this pic

http://a324.ac-images.myspacecdn.com/images01/3/l\_3ded51212738a2c324c5b991a5572d5b.jpg

and I thought that West Ham had a simlar one around that time but can't find any evidence of it

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Football - 09-07-2008 12:02

---

Yes it was 200% and I thought it looked better for it.

Cardiff changed sponsors midway through a season a couple of years ago and I saw a replica shirt recently from that time where the old sponsor's logo had obviously been picked off and the new one ironed over the top of it. I'd love to know how many they had to do that to.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 09-07-2008 12:09

---

Bored Of Football wrote:

I thought that West Ham had a simlar one around that time but can't find any evidence of it

Do you mean this one ;

<http://www.idolsandlegends.com/sports/131.jpg>

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orange - 09-07-2008 12:13

---

Is there any significance to the fact that those England and Coventry kits are displayed on a mannequin with breasts?

Is it part of an "If Brian Kilcline had played for England" exhibition?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 09-07-2008 12:23

---

I had that "no sponsor kit" (I recall a young Joe Cole flitting about in it alongside a young Frank Lampard - "He'll grow out of his puppy fat"). Then I got too big for it and gave it to my brother, who chopped the arms off it, the silly bugger.

Of course, I think we all know what the best West Ham away kit is (indeed, one of the best away kits ever).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Stumpy Pepys - 10-07-2008 14:54

---

Oh Lordy, I've just seen this.

<http://blufiles.storage.live.com/y1ppyOQQJ2l3JjwVOfHrtzm4uEluo1kdCm5qpUKObire2osKhc9ancaX2lO5GFQ1uDm>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jimmy Bignutz - 10-07-2008 14:56

---

Man.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by chasbo - 10-07-2008 15:01

---

Behold the awful new Bolton home kit:

http://www.medocmall.co.uk/images/theclubshop\_bwfc/Strip-Ad-New-Kit.jpg

What is the grey bib type thing all about? At least we have brought back the traditional blue shorts which is a small comfort.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by chasbo - 10-07-2008 15:02

---

Beat me to it Stumpy.

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 10-07-2008 15:04

---

It's so bad that it must have blinded you to Stumpy's post.

An appalling effort nonetheless. It somehow raises echoes of Chelsea's diabolical orange and grey Coors-sponsored number.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Football - 10-07-2008 15:07

---

No, Harri, I didn't mean that one. I know my West Ham kits although that may have been the one that subconsciously suggested itself.

It was definitely a kit with horizontal strips although I have no idea whose it was now

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 10-07-2008 15:07

---

Oh, we have a winner here, worse than the Charlton kit.

Is it too much to hope that grey thing is actually the strap for a backpack?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Big Daves Gussett - 10-07-2008 15:08

---

Relegation kit!!

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by chasbo - 10-07-2008 15:10

---

At least Chelsea had Ruud Gullitt wearing that kit, we have Nicky Hunt.

Rumour has it the away kit is some sort of gold design. Can't wait..

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Cavalry Trouser Tips - 10-07-2008 22:23

---

I don't mind the one on the left (third shirt?), but the home shirt doesn't look good at all and that kit manufacturer's logo (Macron) is a ridiculous size.

In other words, they've got the kit they deserve:

<http://www.leedsunited.com/javaImages/6c/96/0,,10273~3708524,00.jpg>

Now this is a kit:

<http://www.htafc.premiumtv.co.uk/javaImages/f6/23/0,,10312~3679222,00.jpg>

---

Beautiful. Promotion kit!

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 11-07-2008 00:54

---

That Bolton one is just possibly the worst shirt I have ever seen. I've seen worse designs, but they had the saving grace of being hilariously coloured, or at least looking in some way interesting. Bolton's would look bad as a training strip, never mind a match kit...

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Amor de Cosmos - 11-07-2008 02:09

---

Are they black socks with the Huddersfield kit? Stunningly retro if so, though it looks like the elastic in the shorts isn't up to much, judging by the lad on the right.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Furtho - 11-07-2008 08:16

---

This is the site of a Tokyo shop that sells old J-League shirts, with a very nice online display to browse through. The teams included, from top to bottom of the page, are as follows:

Top two rows (white / red w/ Tostem sponsor): Kashima Antlers
Next two rows (yellow): JEF United <http://www.vintagesports-football.com/1992jef.jpg>

JEF United 1992

Next four rows (red / white w/ Mitsubishi, Colt or Vodafone sponsor): Urawa Reds
Next row (orange): Omiya Ardija
Next row (blue / grey w/ ENEOS sponsor): FC Tokyo
Next two rows (green / white w/ Yomiuri, Malt's and Konami sponsor): Verdy
Next two rows (blue / white w/ Nissan sponsor): Marinos
Next row (white / sky blue w/ Nisso sponsor): Yokohama FC

<http://www.vintagesports-football.com/1995ntt-kanto.jpg>

Omiya Ardija's predecessor corporate club NTT Kanto, 1995

Next row (white / blue w/ ANA Sato sponsor): Yokohama Flugels
Next row (orange w/ JAL sponsor): Shimizu S-Pulse
Next two rows (light blue w/ Nestle sponsor): Jubilo Iwata
Next row (red w/ Toyota sponsor) Nagoya Grampus
Next row (yellow w/ Hitachi sponsor): Kashiwa Reysol
Next row (white, dark and light blue w/ Fujitsu sponsor): Kawasaki Frontale
Next row (blue and green w/ Bloomberg sponsor): Shonan Bellmare

<http://www.vintagesports-football.com/1992yokohama-cup.jpg>

The late Yokohama Flugels, 1992

Next row (orange and blue w/ Japanese language sponsor): Albirex Niigata
Next row (blue and white w/ Japanese language sponsor): Ventforet Kofu
Next two rows (black and white stripes / maroon w/ Kawasaki / Japanese language sponsor): Vissel Kobe

---

Next row (Blue and white w/ Panasonic sponsor): Gamba Osaka
Next row (Purple w/ Deodeo sponsor): Sanfrecce Hiroshima
Next row (purple w/ Japanese language sponsor): Kyoto Sanga
Next row (red and black w / Japanese language sponsor): Consadole Sapporo and also (blue w/ Georgia sponsor): Avispa Fukuoka

<http://www.vintagesports-football.com/99-02vissel-h.jpg>

Vissel Kobe in a Juventus stylee, 1999-2002

Next row (bluw w/ Japanese language sponsor): Mito Hollyhock
Bottom row features shirts relating to an annual all-star fixture that currently pits against each other teams of J-League players representing east and west Japan

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bogzilla - 11-07-2008 09:47

---

It must be said, that Atletico strip is lovely indeed.

Am I alone in thinking that Martin Laursen appears to be suffering electrocution in that photo of the Villa away strip?

Anyway, check out the appalling Wolves away strip:

http://shop.wolves.co.uk/sites/WOLVES/images/Products/GPS-806\_B.jpg

I can't recall seeing anything quite so cheap and nasty in a long time. Why, oh why, oh why would you exchange the wonderful (nominally old) gold for this vile luminous yellow. Kightly looks deeply ashamed to be wearing it, and rightly so.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Gangster Octopus - 11-07-2008 10:31

---

Finally get to see the shirt. But not the full kit...

<http://pictures.footymad.net/upload/450/397377-1.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orange - 11-07-2008 11:13

---

That Huddersfield kit is the bollocks.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hot Orange - 11-07-2008 11:18

---

The Wolves one reminds me that Norwich have a new all-black away kit. This seems to me to be fairly daft, since Norwich's colours are so, um, unusual that they rarely have to change, but when they do, their opponents often have black shorts. This season, they would have to change at Blackpool, Watford and Wolves - the latter two have black shorts, so Norwich won't actually be able to wear their new away kit.

Still, I expect they will do lots of that unnecessary kit changing instead. God, that annoys me. Ipswich used a change kit unnecessarily last season for the first time ever, as far as I can recall (at Wolves). I'm still seething.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 11-07-2008 12:33

---

The woman in the Rotherham kit is painfully thin, isn't she?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 11-07-2008 12:33

---

That Bolton kit is so far down the road of wrongness I don't know where to begin. I mean, players usually look a bit sheepish in the new kit but that chap (sorry, don't know his name, death ensues) looks like he'd rather be dangling his honey-soaked testicles in the path of a line of soldier ants than be forced to wear that travesty.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jimmy Bignutz - 11-07-2008 12:35

---

She's certainly completely unrepresentative of how the kit will look in practice. It looks T-shaped.

But then it is a T-shirt.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Big Daves Gussett - 11-07-2008 12:46

---

Was the photo taken in GO's living room?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Gangster Octopus - 11-07-2008 13:00

---

I think even I'd balk at that wallpaper...

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 11-07-2008 19:43

---

Bracknell Town's new kit is made by Joshila.

I hadn't heard of them before. Bracknell's kit is 108

You can see what it looks like here:
<http://www.footballkit.joshila.co.uk/108.html>

Main Colour: Red
Second Colour: White
Piping: Black

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

---

Posted by SamLKelly - 12-07-2008 01:00

---

I have only just noticed (after reading a comment on this post on Fighting Talker) the worst thing of all about that Bolton kit: for those who haven't spotted it already, count the number of Reebok logos...

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Billy Casper - 12-07-2008 05:38

---

The woman in the Rotherham photo needs to get her middle finger finger nails cut.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 12-07-2008 23:11

---

Cardiff City take the classy option of using last season's kit in a pre-season friendly yesterday and pasting the website address over last season's sponsor:
http://www.tescophoto.com/wpp/tesco/thumbnails/00000010/96954/p\_26416959\_5825429322.jpg

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Kowalski - 13-07-2008 12:59

---

Wrexham away and Wolves away
http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEDUDNO/Misc/2008\_0712new30174.jpg

Wolves' new all-white goalie kit
http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEDUDNO/Misc/2008\_0712new30196.jpg

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Fatter Hipper - 13-07-2008 13:28

---

Proof that the sun really does shine out of Michael Kightly's arse on the previous page of this thread.

It's a terrible kit, isn't it? What's with the asymmetric collar? Euch. It's apparently our fastest selling away kit ever and has outsold the home kit, which tells you all you need to know about fashion round in that part of the world.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 14-07-2008 10:42

---

SamLKelly wrote:

I have only just noticed (after reading a comment on this post on Fighting Talker) the worst thing of all about that Bolton kit: for those who haven't spotted it already, count the number of Reebok logos...

Kettle Again (formerly of this parish) would at least be happy to see that Bolton no longer have a completely vowel-free shirt front.

---

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 21-07-2008 14:32

---

Artist's impression of the Bath City kit available tomorrow

http://www.bathcityfc.com/newkit\_front.jpg

Going back to a vaguely retro Juve style. AS I understand it, the numbers will be red straight onto the stripes, no white panels

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Leo Fortunes Vest - 21-07-2008 16:52

---

To avoid criticism about changing home kits again for the third successive season Doncaster have kept exactly the same design for their home and away shirts this summer... despite changing to a different kit manufacturer. So only the manufacturers logo and the rear shirt sponsor are different to alst season's home and away shirts. Can't imagine two larger kit manufacturers being happy with this arrangement... anyone recall any other instances of this same strip different make scenario?

Mind... they have launched an awful black away kit, which was probably the sweetner for vandanel, with last season's blue and white hooped shirt becoming the third strip. I know... even I'm confused

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by chasbo - 29-07-2008 12:24

---

In addition to the worst new home kit Bolton have made a strong bid for the worst away shirt as well:

https://www.medocmall.co.uk/images/theclubshop\_bwfc/products/large/enlarge/SHIRTAJNR0809.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 29-07-2008 12:42

---

Yowza.

I honestly don't know what Reebok are thinking. One would think that they would take special care with Bolton given the closeness of the relationship and the identification of the club with the brand.

And yet they produce these atrocities.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 29-07-2008 14:20

---

chasbo wrote:

In addition to the worst new home kit Bolton have made a strong bid for the worst away shirt as well:

https://www.medocmall.co.uk/images/theclubshop\_bwfc/products/large/enlarge/SHIRTAJNR0809.jpg

There's going to be a lot of stewards at Bolton's away games being asked to change to different coloured tabards, aren't there?

=====

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Ibn Pickthall - 29-07-2008 14:28

---

I don't know why it's taken so long for Atleti to revert to stripes on both sides. The sponsor logo still looks awful though.

Betis's 3rd strip for the season:

<http://www.soccer-spain.com/ssshop/shopimages/products2008/S22083A.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 29-07-2008 14:32

---

Bolton or Boston?

That's rank, that shirt.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Senyor Pirotecnic - 29-07-2008 14:47

---

Athletic Bilbao, complete with sponsor for first time ever.

<http://foto-cache.elcorreodigital.com/jpg/3/0/1217331482103.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jimmy Bignutz - 29-07-2008 14:49

---

It's 1992, am I in a coma, mad or gone back in time?

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Hieronymus of Hesselink - 29-07-2008 14:50

---

That Real Betis away jersey is rather soothing if you stare at it for a while.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 29-07-2008 14:53

---

I wonder if Athletic are going to put the sponsor on their away kits:

<http://www.athletic-club.net/acc/mega/fotosproductos/146g.jpg>

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 30-07-2008 22:59

---

As I have mentioned on the other thread (Please Harry, consolidate these threads into only easily managed "Ohmigawd...2008-2009" thread") bollocks, that has fucked up a really nice kit as well.

---

First Barca (for aesthetic reasons) and now this

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 30-07-2008 23:04

---

Bored Of Discipline wrote:

(Please Harry, consolidate these threads into only easily managed "Ohmigawd...2008-2009" thread")

I wish I had but this season I allowed market forces to dictate the number of new kit threads and apparently people want choice.

I can't do anything with the current two, I didn't start them.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 30-07-2008 23:13

---

Start the official "Ohmigawd...2008/2009" thread with links at the start to the two other ones and then you bring together the two codes like Calzaghe or something

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by dogbeak - 31-07-2008 06:46

---

they've tried so very hard.. and missed by an inch.

not good.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 31-07-2008 09:47

---

200's head is going to explode . . .

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by EIM - 31-07-2008 09:49

---

I thought Nike had the new France shirts?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jimmy Bignutz - 31-07-2008 09:50

---

Is that a kit though? Don't they usually bring them out just before the international tournaments (and I think they did), not after?

Clesrly there's not enough red on it. France are switching to Nike anyway (for fuck's sake) in a few years.

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 31-07-2008 10:05

---

All good points. France did have a new kit for Euro 2008 (including the sacrilegious red ones); the Nike deal starts after the 2010 World Cup.

Might it be a mock up for the 2010 kit, or a training top?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by tratorello - 31-07-2008 10:05

---

I quite like it, but it's not a football shirt is it? It looks more like a rugby shirt.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 31-07-2008 11:07

---

It's a leisure (pronounced lee-zha) shirt isn't it? Light blue being a more popular colour than darker shade in men's casual fashion.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 31-07-2008 11:37

---

It's certainly not France's rugby shirt, which Nike produce and have fucked up royally by making it so dark blue that it appears the players have already played three or four consecutive matches in the desert sun.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 31-07-2008 11:48

---

There's also the small matter of it having the football federation's recently-redesigned badge, instead of this:

<http://crdp.ac-bordeaux.fr/rugby/partenaires/default1.jpg>

I reckon that Harry's got it right (including the proper pronunciation of "leisure" in this context).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Etienne - 31-07-2008 11:52

---

I actually like it as a design (obviously except for the logo) but it clearly has no business representing itself as a French kit.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by dogbeak - 31-07-2008 11:55

---

Just checked again on footballshirtculture.com, and they claim it's going to be used for the 2010 qualifiers.

I still think it's horrible, but to put it in context the first comment on the blog post suggests it could be improved by putting the dark blue at the top, and replacing the light blue with red.

Some people don't deserve the eyes they were born with, do they?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 31-07-2008 12:03

---

I've found that the comments on that site definitely tend to the cringeworthy.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 31-07-2008 12:42

---

That FFR badge ursus posted is the one the Federation Francaise de Rugby use on their official website, although they have the old badge on the shirts, at least.

http://m.gmgrd.co.uk/res/568.\$plit/C\_71\_article\_1021249\_image\_list\_image\_list\_item\_0\_image.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jorge Porbillas - 31-07-2008 13:03

---

The new Wales shirt is embargoed until tomorrow ;)

EDIT: oops!!

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 31-07-2008 13:31

---

Horrific, too busy and cheap looking and the wrong shade of red (Heinz Cream of Tomato Soup rather than the deep red of the flag).

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 31-07-2008 13:31

---

I don't know what to think really. It isn't disimilar to the last "new" Wales kit which I finally saw yesterday.

Not a disaster but not anything special.

Has he got a false right leg?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 31-07-2008 13:34

---

---

It is quite cheap looking, Harri, but I put that down to the fact I have never seen "Champion" on a proper kit.

I will reserve judgement on the colour until I see it live

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jorge Porbillas - 01-08-2008 09:16

---

<http://www.dragonsoccer.co.uk/champion/images/newkitaug2008-awilliams.jpg>

http://www.faw.org.uk/\_uploads/imgpool/NewKit.jpg.png

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 01-08-2008 10:56

---

What is the white circle on the left shoulder in the photo at the top? It doesn't appear to be in the bottom photos

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jorge Porbillas - 01-08-2008 10:56

---

I think it's champion's logo

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 07-08-2008 22:12

---

The new Boca Juniors kit has been unveiled.

At least they've got rid of those bloody stars on the badge. But what a horrible shade of yellow.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by jamzinho - 07-08-2008 22:54

---

Looks ok - so they've got bored of updating the stars everytime they win a title then.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 07-08-2008 23:16

---

Probably just sore that they haven't had to update it at all this year...

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Kowalski - 16-08-2008 00:59

---

Earlier, I took possession of our new replica kits. There's only one problem. The replica kits should be called fans' shirts as they look nothing like the teams' kit.

The look is not the only difference. The fans version will cost £32 but we will have to charge, wait for it, £60, yes 60 fucking pounds for the players' version. Our lovely supplier is charging considerably more for the players' version.

Fans' Version

http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEDUDNO/Misc/2008\_0815new40352.jpg

Players' Version

http://i79.photobucket.com/albums/j143/CHEDUDNO/Misc/2008\_0815new40350.jpg

As you can see the players' version is like Italy's kit. I hoped for the Czech Rep's but you can't have everything.

I think the reason for the price difference is that the Players' version comes from the future; it is not stitched together, it's fused together. I don't know what this achieves, except to make the shirt feel fragile.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 17-08-2008 23:03

---

That is some discrepancy there.

By the way, as mentioned elsewhere, I have seen the new Wales kit in the flesh (as it were)

Horrible, slightly less wrong red than the picture suggests but the white piping is shit and the shorts feel horrible. The dragon on the back is just bizarre

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Eggchaser - 18-08-2008 10:17

---

That Wales kit is nasty - it looks like the generic kits you get for your Sunday morning team.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 24-08-2008 13:10

---

What the fucking hell were Swansea playing at yesterday, playing with an all-black kit that, from the ITV coverage, was unbelievably close to Plymouth's dark green.

The Gods Of Kits may not have frowned upon them instantly but they will pay for it, mark my words

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 26-08-2008 11:14

---

It's navy with light blue sleeves isn't it? A nod to their early eighties change strip.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by tartanhyena - 26-08-2008 15:25

---

Amor de Cosmos wrote:

Finney: Have you seen the away shirt yet?

The shirts may be bad but just get a load of this mascot — WTF!

<http://i3.photobucket.com/albums/y64/Pudster/Mascot.jpg>

Wasn't that the evil robot from the first Robocop film?

Just to show that hideous kits isn't just a 20th/21st Century thing, check out Hearts first ever kit - a gorgeous "Elvis jumpsuit" style number from historicalkits:

http://i219.photobucket.com/albums/cc194/tartanhyena/heart\_of\_midlothian-1873-1876-bk.jpg

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 26-08-2008 15:32

---

Welcome Hyena.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by tartanhyena - 26-08-2008 16:08

---

Thanks. Been registered a while, and thought I'd posted, but it seems not.

Mind you I registered in the library leeching off their free wi-fi while trying to finish my college dissertation, so maybe my better self won over my skiving on that occasion.

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jon - 31-08-2008 23:18

---

http://wbashop.co.uk/assets/ProductImages/2\_0809-Adult-Home-Shirt-SS.jpg

Bought this today. I swore I'd never buy a football top again, being too old for all that shennanigans, but how many times do you get to buy your team's shirt without a sponsor? And there are stripes on the back too!

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 31-08-2008 23:25

---

I loved the away kit they wore yesterday as well but i wish the badge and Umbro logo were lightly lower down the chest but they are obviously waiting for the sponsor's logo

---

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 31-08-2008 23:28

---

It's navy with light blue sleeves isn't it? A nod to their early eighties change strip.

Possibly but it is still too close to Plymouth's green especially when they have a perfectly good white kit (well, if you're a Jack, like)

---

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 31-08-2008 23:29

---

I think it's terrible.

It makes WBA look like some kind of billy no-mates side and I hope all the other teams point and laugh at their untouchable status.

If it were my team I'd avoid games out of embarrassment until it were rectified.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 31-08-2008 23:36

---

Oh bugger off with your capitalist sponsor appreciation.

CA n you genuinely say that "Ken Thorne's World of Cars", for instance, is better than an unsullied shirt

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 31-08-2008 23:43

---

Yes. Don't forget that you're talking to a man who was trying to stick his own company's logo on Cardiff's shirts.

A team being the only one in the league/division without a sponsor is like the "being nude at the school assembly" dream to the power of a thousand, acute embarrassment.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 02-09-2008 09:36

---

Not in Italy:

Bologna:

<http://images.gazzetta.it/Hermes%20Foto/2008/08/31/0K6GZ8XF--346x212.jpg>

Lazio:

<http://images.gazzetta.it/Hermes%20Foto/2008/08/31/0K6H0T0A--346x212.jpg>

Palermo:

http://www.telegraph.co.uk/telegraph/multimedia/archive/00799/gokhan\_inler2\_799347c.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Harri Saer - 02-09-2008 10:13

---

So, none of them are "only one in the league/division without a sponsor" then?

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 02-09-2008 10:20

---

None of them are Billy No Mates, no.

I've always found your position on this issue to be baffling. I appreciate your aesthetic criticism of the details WBA kit, but those aren't of general application.

BTW, the Udinese kit should bring a smile to all of those who favour narrow stripes, and is a tremendous upgrade over their recent efforts (the moire effect stripes, the asymmetrical curved ones, etc.)

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 03-09-2008 06:14

---

Sepp Blatter can't leave well enough alone, example 14,782.

http://www.figc.it/Assets/contentresources\_2/ContenutoGenerico/89.\$plit/C\_2\_ContentutoGenerico\_19492\_upilimagePreview.jpg

A shiny badge to remind the Azzurri that they are World Cup Holders.

<http://www.fifa.com/mm/photo/tournament/competition/86/81/39/868139%5full-Ind.jpg>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by mnb098mnb - 12-09-2008 19:51

---

Interesting (if you're into this sort of thing) piece about Sevilla featuring the Spanish colours on their UEFA Cup kits this season on theoffside:

<http://sevilla.theoffside.com/team-news/club-or-country.html>

I must admit I've never really liked the idea of the Wales flag featuring on Cardiff City kits either.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Cavalry Trouser Tips - 18-09-2008 21:40

---

So here's our charity kit. Limited to 85 and supporting Huddersfield Royal Infirmary Breast Cancer Care Fund:

<http://img170.imageshack.us/img170/1788/imgp0210gv9.jpg>

Our chairman-elect has already donated £1m to Macmillan Cancer Support too.

This guy is fantastic. I'm glad he's stopped giving Stan Ternent money to buy central midfielders.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Bored Of Discipline - 19-09-2008 23:16

---

Sponsors logo aside, that is a lovely kit

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by twohundredpercent - 19-09-2008 23:19

---

---

Dulwich Hamlet and Corinthian-Casuals, both proud wearers of pink, are heroes of mine. Palermo less so, I can't properly explain why.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by ursus arctos - 20-09-2008 08:34

---

Do you have a view on Sport Boys of Peru?

<http://www.subsidesports.com/uk/images/product/large/SportBoysHSS2007.gif>

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by Jimmy Bignutz - 20-09-2008 23:38

---

Well that manufacturer's logo is a rip-off.

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 19-10-2008 00:25

---

Just felt the need to revive this thread because I'm watching Arsenal de Sarandí vs. Vélez Sársfield, and the visitors have got their new away kit on - which is the first time they've worn it to my knowledge. I rather like it.

http://www.dalefortin.com.ar/nueva\_fotodia/grande\_8.jpg

=====

Re:New Kit What A Rip!

Posted by SamLKelly - 19-10-2008 00:32

---

Good God I've just noticed the socks. One green and one red. And no they're not halved. If I was just coming to Argentine football for the first time tonight, I think Vélez would probably have bagged themselves a new fan.

=====