
Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Rogin the Armchair Fan - 05-05-2008 21:34

Wembley!

Four goals in the last half hour at Plainmoor. It simply doesn't get any better than that!

I hope it's Burton Albion in the final. Cambridge I'd be nervous about.

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by teerex - 06-05-2008 06:23

I promised myself I wouldn't let hope through the door. I've been a secure fortress of pessimism all season, disguised as indifference. Foolishly, I allowed myself to listen to the commentary, but when Torquay scored I felt vindicated. And at peace with the world.

Exeter City are cruel bastards, they really are.

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Max Payne - 06-05-2008 13:16

Loving it. Hoping for one better. Torquay are now officially 'Tinpot'!

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Max Payne - 06-05-2008 13:19

Exeter fans on board this one is for you

Richard Logan makes it 3-1

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Rogin the Armchair Fan - 17-05-2008 18:51

Hope those so-called Cup finalists haven't ripped the pitch to shit to disturb our pristine passing game tomorrow. It's disgraceful, really, that they could allow a game like that to be played on the Wembley pitch ahead of such an important game tomorrow.

Never mind the fucking Pompey chimes, it's going to be

"i-oh, City, City I-oh.."

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Cavalry Trousers Tips - 17-05-2008 19:53

Is this the official 'Cambridge United are Back, Back, Back' thread?

Come on the U's!

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by EIM - 17-05-2008 21:57

Paul Carden, who plays for Cambridge, has a brother called Adam who plays for FC United.

Fancy that.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by ad hoc - 18-05-2008 08:12

Mooooooooosse

Do they still do that?

Anyway, come on you U's.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by teerex - 18-05-2008 10:47

Ah, bollocks. I posted some waffle and it disappeared. IT'S A SIGN.

in a small, small voice ... Come on City!

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Nathan Helena Handcart - 18-05-2008 18:01

My decision not to go today is vindicated - up the bleddy city. I've seen Exeter play 4 times, and the only time they won was the time I was supporting the opposition. All bodes bloody well for Stockport...

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Cavalry Trouser Tips - 18-05-2008 18:30

God dammit, that's the second time this season I've backed a losing team with gold in their shirt colour in a play-off final.

I hope Leeds have to play in some sort of gold away shirt - if so I'm rooting for them next weekend.

Congratulations to the Exeter City contingent anyway. It wasn't the best game, but they worked hard and had the best chances. My support of Cambridge decreased slightly when Leo 'all elbows' Fortune-West came on.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Rogin the Armchair Fan - 18-05-2008 19:41

We're a league club, Torquay aren't. Balance is restored in a small way to the overall yin and yang of life.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by ad hoc - 18-05-2008 20:24

Bollocks. till I bet OTF had a better turnout at the Cambridge end - I think all of noj, Janik and Hissing fauna went.

Cambridge's proud "never lost at Wembley" record is shattered. Never lost at the old Wembley it will have to be now.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by noj - 19-05-2008 12:12

Well, that was all a bit disappointing. We (Cambridge) never really got going, and I can't really recall a single good chance (apart from possibly that Peters one which was cleared off the line).

Exeter looked better in the first half, and defended very well in the second. I think Quinn missed a trick with starting with McEvilly and Boylan up front though, there's just no pace between those two.

Still, enjoyed my first visit to the 'new' Wembley and met some very nice fans both in Amber and Red. The acoustics seem a little odd though - near the end we could see all the Exeter fans making a noise (bouncing up and down, flag waving etc) but couldn't really hear a thing.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Nathan Helena Handcart - 19-05-2008 12:33

What was the attendance?

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by noj - 19-05-2008 12:41

42,500

Top tier shut, so appeared fairly full.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by noj - 20-05-2008 08:57

Oh yeah, and I also met Dion Dublin on Sunday.

Which was nice.

=====

Re:Tee Rex, Art, Max Payne ...

Posted by Max Payne - 20-05-2008 15:31

Sweet. And we personally kept Torquay down. Worth losing last year just to really do it proper.

=====