
iTunes alternative?

Posted by King Mob - 17-05-2008 13:50

I've just seen a track I want to download on a band's Myspace page, but the only download link is to iTunes, which I don't have installed and have no intention of installing. Being a bit of a novice in the field of purchasing music online, I have to ask, is there an alternative to iTunes? Somewhere that has the same availability of tracks, but that you don't have to download and install?

=====

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by Crusoe - 17-05-2008 17:09

What's the band and the track?

=====

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by Nico Rijnders - 17-05-2008 17:35

Have you searched on Souseek/Limewire?

=====

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by Inca - 17-05-2008 17:39

Check Hype Machine--maybe some blog has posted it.

<http://hypem.com/>

=====

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by King Mob - 26-05-2008 21:32

Forgot clean about this. The track is called 'Black Moon' and it's by an act called A.Human

It would be nice to be able to get hold of the remixes too. No luck with SoulSeek.

=====

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by King Mob - 26-05-2008 21:46

Arse. Now there are links to play.com for the single, album and remixes. Nothing like having to wait for the band's official release dates, is there.

Ah well, let's turn this into an 'A.Human, they're OK aren't they, even though I (obviously) haven't heard the album yet' thread.

=====

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by Spearmint Rhino - 27-05-2008 07:04

This is very naughty of me, but for the specific purposes of ripping mp3s from Myspace (or anywhere else, really), you might wanna try this:

<http://file2hd.com/?myspacemp3>

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by Crusoe - 27-05-2008 19:15

Sorry, KM, I can't find this anywhere.

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by marke - 05-06-2008 21:07

got the album by chance today KM.

have to say, not overly keen despite the fact Tim 'DiV' Holmes is the music man for this.

admittedly, i'm only one listen in, but it wasn't a particularly enjoyable experience, so i'm in no rush to have another go. the singer has one of those love it or loathe it voices.

i'll give it another go once i have got fed up with David Axelrod (probably about 11:34 tomorrow) and see how it plays then.

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by marke - 18-06-2008 12:30

king hob.

ok, just to let you know, the a-human album is a good old fashioned "grower".

its all about the love-hate vocals.

i have now succumbed and have found this to be a really enjoyable/interesting electro-pop album.

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by King Mob - 18-06-2008 12:53

I'm sure by now it's propagated online - I'll give it a listen.

Re:iTunes alternative?

Posted by Furtho - 19-06-2008 13:42

PM for King Mob.
