
Name my blog for me

Posted by Phoebe Disco - 18-05-2008 01:56

I'm looking to start a blog on a few things - mainly whinging and whining about Jim Magilton, Russell T. Davies, and anyone else who seems to set out to piss me off. I don't want to use the PD name, as I may well end up letting real life people see it, so I'm looking for a name that's free. So something random, and or generic really. SO far I've got blahblaheffingblah, but I've only been thinking about it for a few minutes.

Okay, so none of those really did it for me, so I went away and came up with A New Habit.

Linking is of course encouraged.

Hold on, there's a smattering of irony in that he's going to be confident and upfront to espouse his views to a whole interwebsuperhighnet world in a blog, yet finds giving it a name such an obstacle that he has to ask his colleagues on OTF to help him.

Tsk, well I never... (folds arms, harumphs).

All the best with it, though.

That's a very prominent link to Lawrence Miles' blog, Phoebe. Do you know him?

No, I just listed the blogs I read in alphabetical order.

Gah. The old 'alphabetical order' trick.

Cheers, and you could be right about the colours Eggy, so I've changed the scheme.
