
Diving... with water... and with judges

Posted by gerontofiel of trutje - 04-06-2008 20:13

When did the UK get so good? I am currently watching a World Series thingy, and fucking hell (apart from the 'I can do that' factor) the Brits are so far miles ahead in the rhythmic gymnastic section.

There is a schoolkid who may or may not be the best in Europe, and if the Chinese have no-one up their sleeve, may well win a medal at Peking.

Unfortunately, the Chinese have more than a dozen world class divers up their sleeve (those coats are very roomy).

And it's "synchronised diving", not rhythmic gymnastics, though it would be interesting to see them try it with a ball, streamer or hoop.

I should explain that its a Rupert version of what is actually going on (and I know about diving) but I was talking about the Brit kid. The Chinese boy is fucking unreal.

thank heavens that my name says it all...

oh and ursus? I KNOW the difference... sometimes you just have to let a sentence lie.

And crap dive by the jongen Brit, which just lost him a medal.

(Good point about the Chinese... there are so many of them, that the thing I am watching is practically a national championship for them.)

WOW Cuban person just nailed a 'fuck you'... that was such a good thing to watch. Brits 2nd and 3rd, and I am fairly certain, that if they get a 4th place in Peking, they will have done the biz.

The 14 year old (UK version) has just spoken. and he is fucked OFF, about losing.
