

---

Wonder how England are feeling now?

Posted by Bring me Edelweiss - 21-06-2008 17:31

---

Extremely embarrassed, we hope. Even with Ireland's captain helping them in the field, the useless bastards have managed to lose to NZ after keeping the tourists to 182.

Well it makes up for England and the umpires' timewasting at Edgbaston last week. Ha ha.

Gory details.

---

Re:Wonder how England are feeling now?

Posted by The Purple Cow - 21-06-2008 17:46

---

England switched off about 2/3 rds of the way through the Black Caps innings, allowing them to get 30 or 40 runs more than they should. 182 was a pretty competitive score on this track, but 140 wouldn't have been.

Still justice was seen to be done after Edgbaston.

---