

---

Anti-semitism at Wimbledon - surely not

Posted by Izbušen dana Ples - 26-06-2008 13:57

---

Upon seeing a couple of Jewish guys in yarmulkes, the commentator said "Those fellows wouldn't make it into the Royal Box". Being kind, I expect it he meant that it was because of the "wacky" tennis ball necklaces they were wearing but you can't be sure.

10 minutes later, the camera zoomed in on the same two guys and the commentator rather ham-fistedly started saying "Ah, isn't it wonderful how all races and nationalities can enjoy this occasion" so I expect the producer had a word in the interim

=====

Re:Anti-semitism at Wimbledon - surely not

Posted by Rogin the Armchair Fan - 26-06-2008 14:56

---

The embrace of the BBC for all tennis-playing nations will, I'm sure, come as a relief to Jonathan Erlich and Andy Ram, third seeds in the men's doubles, not to mention Shahar Peer, 24th seed in the women's singles (all of whom are playing today).

=====