
Are Aran Jumpers cool?

Posted by AMMS - 04-07-2008 15:35

I ask because I've just been to an exhibition and it featured a photograph of Grandmaster Flash and he was wearing an Aran Jumper with matching hat and he still managed to look pretty cool. Is this a look that is making a comeback or has Grandmaster Flash recently become a folk singer and nobody told me?
I wish I could find a link to it, it's from a series of portraits used in the Big issue.

=====

Re:Are Aran Jumpers cool?

Posted by Gangster Octopus - 04-07-2008 15:37

'Course they're not. They're nice and warm.

=====

Re:Are Aran Jumpers cool?

Posted by hobbess - 04-07-2008 15:44

Flash isn't as young as he used to be, you know?
he's more likely to have a heart attack than a funk attack these days.

=====

Re:Are Aran Jumpers cool?

Posted by Guy Potger - 04-07-2008 15:44

Gangster Octopus wrote:
'Course they're not. They're nice and warm.

Ba-dum. Tish!

=====

Re:Are Aran Jumpers cool?

Posted by WornOldMotorbike - 04-07-2008 15:45

That's the sort of thing you could buy in the lobby at a Housemartins gig, innit?

=====

Re:Are Aran Jumpers cool?

Posted by Stumpy Pepys - 04-07-2008 15:50

I've been trying to find that picture of David Owen and David Steel, trying to look chummy in matching Aran sweaters, but alas ...

=====

Re:Are Aran Jumpers cool?

Posted by Wyatt Earp - 04-07-2008 16:07

Grouse on the lochside, pheasant in the rick
Sandy's in the meadow with a shinty stick
I tried to get away but I've been delayed
Too squally for the boat today, I'm afraid

(Lacks the Nishlord touch, unfortunately).

=====