The Telegraph is advertising FF for all 4 English leagues from next season!

How many League 2 supporting OTFers do we have, and how many would be interested in creating an OTF league if/when this happens?

I'm very interested in any of the non-Prem leagues they appear to be offering, but I'd like to know more about how it's scored.

Me too, though was simply giving people some advance notice of it.

I'd be interested in this. As I already do the Premiership Telegraph game I'd expect the scoring would be similar if not exactly the same.

2 points for playing, 5 for goal/clean sheet, 3 for assist/motm., -2 for booking, -5 for red etc.

The Guardian are also promising a brand new game based, by the sounds of it, on whatever the Opta stats are called these days. Can we watch that space, too?

The Telegraph one is now up and running. The player list for League 2 is still a bit short of full though. I would've created an OTF league but it seems like teams can only be in one private league and I joined up to one already. Not sure whether the Bees fans would be accepting of OTF invaders, but I'll ask!

Are we having an OTF League then? Based on League Two maybe?

Show of hands please, or should I just go ahead and set it up?

Ibn, if we do get one set up you could always request the Telegraph to take you out of the existing one!

Well, at the moment it's just you and I, axel, as certainties.

The Brentford superleague already has 39 participants so I think, despite my slim chances of winning, I'll be staying in that. I may just select a new side for OTF.
