You are an habitual criminal who accepts arrest as an occupational hazard, and presumably accepts imprisonment in the same casual manner.

"Yet again Mr Monologue you have graced us with your presence and yet again you have failed to admit any guilt and even after a unanimous guilty verdict was returned in a record 30 seconds, you have failed show even the merest shiver of remorse.

Your crimes are such that only a custodial sentence will suffice. I can only hope that the clang of the prison doors will reverberate inside your skull for the next three months and that the metallic sound will give you pause for thought.

Send him down."
